WHY ATTEND: The Union World Conference on Lung Health is an enriching forum for delegates from more than 120 countries, who gather to discuss, debate and network with colleagues; strengthen anew their commitment to global health; and find health solutions for the poor and underserved.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS: As a conference delegate, you have the opportunity to stay abreast of new research and developments in your field of interest, while interacting with colleagues from around the world. You also learn firsthand about the latest successes and challenges in your field from a wide variety of world-class experts.

HOW TO REDUCE THE COST OF ATTENDANCE: Early planning is key to reducing the cost of attendance. It will allow you to benefit from preferential registration rates, give you time to identify colleagues with whom you can share the cost of accommodation, and make it possible to get the best fares for your travel. Join The Union today and receive a 100 euro discount on your full registration!

HOW TO CONTRIBUTE ACTIVELY: As a Union member, you can join the Scientific Section of your choice and affiliate with colleagues from other countries to gain valuable insight and experience in conducting research, writing papers and making presentations. You also get to know other members and organisations from your region and can help develop conferences, workshops, newsletters and other projects that promote health in your region.

HOW TO GAIN VISIBILITY: A variety of companies, agencies, NGOs and other groups exhibit their products and services to the 2 500 international delegates whose interests include all areas of lung health, HIV, tobacco control, and other related issues. A selection of sponsorship opportunities ensures that you will have high visibility at the conference. Learn more now!
